Depco Announces the Launch of Quality Assurance Program

HOUSTON – March 8, 2011 – Depco Power Systems, a worldwide provider of new and used power generation systems, recently launched its quality assurance program that will take the worry out of buying used power equipment.

Guaranteeing that buyers can shop with confidence, the program exemplifies Depco's commitment to providing quality power equipment at fair prices.

Every product that makes its way through Depco's facility is inspected, tested and serviced in a process known as, "The Depco Way." As part of the program, Depco offers customers a 30 day warranty on used and rebuilt inventory as well as a 6 month warranty on rebuilt equipment.

"Depco prides itself on high standards of quality," said Dick Davis, president of Depco Power Systems. "We are continually raising the bar for the power industry and will continue to do so, keeping our customer's interests the focus of our decision-making."

Accompanying the quality assurance program is Depco's new "Guaranteed Seal." The emblem will appear on all pieces of equipment that have undergone the extensive testing process.

"The seal will serve as a reminder of our dedication to quality," said Davis. "And there won't be a piece of equipment we sell that doesn't have it – I guarantee it."
